nozzle is pushing the material to early so when he is printing a line there is to much material at the start point